

Insights & Distribution Standards Guide

Meridian Partners LLP

Marketing & Communications Department

Version 2.1 | Effective March 2025

1. Syndication Overview

Meridian Partners distributes content to external platforms to extend thought leadership reach and drive inbound engagement. Syndicated content must meet the formatting requirements of each distribution partner while maintaining Meridian brand standards.

Active distribution channels:

- LexisNexis - Expert Analysis, Insights, and Outside Publications
- Bloomberg Law - Expert Analysis and White Paper summaries
- LinkedIn (firm page) - All content types
- JD Supra - Insights and Expert Analysis
- Email newsletters (internal distribution) - All content types

2. LexisNexis Requirements

2.1 Submission Format

LexisNexis accepts content via automated XML feed from the Meridian CMS. The feed runs nightly at 2:00 AM ET. Content published and tagged for syndication before midnight will be included in the next feed.

RULE: LEXISNEXIS TAGGING

Content must be tagged with the "LexisNexis Syndication" distribution tag in the CMS before the nightly feed cutoff. Untagged content will not be syndicated regardless of content type.

2.2 Required Fields

LexisNexis requires the following metadata for every submission:

- Title (max 150 characters)
- Author name(s) and bar admission state(s)
- Practice area classification (from LexisNexis taxonomy)
- Publication date
- Abstract/summary (max 300 characters)
- Full article body (plain text or limited HTML)
- Distribution image (1200x630px, JPEG or PNG)

2.3 HTML Restrictions

LexisNexis strips most HTML from submissions. The following tags are preserved:

- ,
 - paragraph and line breaks
- , - bold and italic
-  - hyperlinks (must include full URL, not relative paths)
- , , - lists

All other HTML is stripped. This means <h3> headers in Expert Analysis are converted to bold text during syndication. Do not rely on heading structure for meaning in syndicated content -- use transitional phrases instead.

2.4 Image Requirements

RULE: LEXISNEXIS IMAGES

Distribution images for LexisNexis must be exactly 1200x630px, under 1MB file size, and must not contain text overlays, logos, or watermarks. LexisNexis will reject submissions with non-compliant images. The image file name must follow the pattern: mp-[content-type]-[slug].jpg

3. Bloomberg Law Requirements

3.1 Content Types Accepted

Bloomberg Law accepts Expert Analysis and White Paper executive summaries. Blog posts and Insights are not accepted by Bloomberg Law. Outside Publications are accepted only if the original publisher grants Bloomberg redistribution rights.

3.2 Author Credentials

RULE: BLOOMBERG AUTHOR FORMAT

Bloomberg Law requires the following author format: "[Full Name], [Title] at [Firm Name], [City, State]." Example: "Jane A. Smith, Partner at Meridian Partners LLP, Washington, D.C." Do not include practice group in the Bloomberg byline.

3.3 Submission Process

Bloomberg Law submissions are manual. The content team emails the formatted article to the Bloomberg editorial contact. Turnaround for publication is typically 3-5 business days. The content team must confirm publication and add the Bloomberg URL back to the Meridian CMS as a cross-reference.

4. LinkedIn Distribution

4.1 Post Formatting

LinkedIn posts promoting Meridian content must follow these standards:

- Max 3,000 characters for the post body
- Include the article title, a 1-2 sentence summary, and the URL
- Tag the author(s) LinkedIn profiles
- Include 3-5 relevant hashtags (maintain the approved hashtag list in the CMS)
- Use the distribution image as the post image

4.2 Scheduling

LinkedIn posts are scheduled through the social media management platform. Standard posting windows: Tuesday through Thursday, 8:00-9:00 AM ET or 12:00-1:00 PM ET. Do not post on weekends or federal holidays. Maximum two posts per day.

5. Email Newsletter Standards

5.1 Content Selection

The weekly newsletter includes up to five content pieces selected by the content team. Selection criteria: recency (published within the last 7 days), relevance to the recipient segment, and content type diversity (no more than three of the same type per newsletter).

5.2 Email Formatting

Newsletter content blocks include: title (linked to web page), author byline, 2-sentence summary, and distribution image thumbnail (300x157px, scaled from the 1200x630 distribution image). Do not use body content excerpts; write a dedicated 2-sentence summary for each newsletter entry.

RULE: NEWSLETTER SUMMARIES

Newsletter summaries are written separately from article abstracts. They should be action-oriented and emphasize the practical takeaway. Example: "New SEC rules require updated disclosure procedures by Q3. Here is what your compliance team needs to know."

6. Quality Checklist

Before tagging any content for distribution, verify:

- Distribution image meets 1200x630px spec with alt text
- All syndication metadata fields are populated in CMS
- Author bar admission state(s) are current
- Practice area taxonomy matches LexisNexis classification
- No confidential client information in the article
- Reprint permissions confirmed (Outside Publications only)
- Abstract/summary is under 300 characters
- Article has been through final editorial review
